

Food costs lead May prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The largest increase in food costs in 10 months helped push consumer prices up six-tenths of a per cent during May, the biggest monthly jump since last November, the government said today.

The Labor Department said the May figures mean that inflation now is running at an annual rate of 7.2 per cent. The May performance compared with a consumer price increase of four-tenths of a per cent in April.

The 7.2 per cent inflation rate is higher than the 6 per cent rate which administration economists consider to be the underlying inflation rate in the economy. But the effect was to compensate for lower than normal increases in earlier months.

Despite the faster pace of inflation, however, workers managed to improve the amount of their disposal incomes. The Labor Department said real spendable earnings climbed by 1.2 per cent in May after decreasing for two consecutive months. Spendable earnings for May stood seven-tenths of a per cent ahead of a year ago.

Consumer prices in May were 6.2 per cent more than a year ago.

Over-all food prices were up one per cent in May, the sharpest advance since the 1.8 per cent increase last July. Food price declines in the first three months of this year had been responsible for holding over-all consumer prices below an annual increase of three per cent.

For the month, the consumer price index stood at 169.2. That means that a sampling of goods which cost $100 in 1967 cost $169.20 last month.

Beef prices, which had declined for four consecutive months, shot up 5.2 per cent in May. Prices of pork and poultry nearly tripled the rate of their April increases.

Cereal and bakery prices rose seven-tenths of a per cent, the first increase in four months.

Coffee prices moved up 4.8 per cent to 35 per cent above where they were a year ago.

The increases overcame declines in prices for both fresh and processed fruits and vegetables.

But food wasn't the only area where inflation picked up.

While the cost of services increased by the same four-tenths of a per cent logged in April, commodities other than food went up six-tenths of a per cent in May compared to three-tenths of 1 per cent in April.

The average price of a gallon of gasoline moved up a penny nationally, to 58 cents for leaded regular gasoline. That compared to 55 cents a gallon a year ago.

Clothing prices, which had been rising about two-tenths of a per cent a month, jumped five-tenths of a per cent in May. Prices of fuel oil, houses, and new cars also went up faster.

Gas and electricity rates rose by 1.1 per cent in May after a two-tenths of a per cent increase in April.

Among the influences likely to be pushing prices up in the near future are food and fuel, the same items responsible for the increases of more than 10 per cent in some recent years.

Food prices jumped in April for the first time in four months and the Agriculture Department has reported that the prices received by farmers over the last two months have been going up. That means higher prices are in prospect eventually for pork, beef and other items, even if those increases don't show up at the consumer level in May.

Gasoline prices also are edging up now that motorists are traveling more and the government is gradually lifting controls on various petroleum products.

In the case of neither food nor fuel, however, is the pace of increase expected to be very sharp yet. Wholesale prices, whose movements roughly coincide with retail price movements, rose three-tenths of 1 per cent over-all in May, compared with an eight-tenths of 1 per cent increase in April.

DeKalb issue to state office

The City Council voted Monday to submit a request for an industrial revenue bond issue to the Missouri Industrial Development Commission, a step necessary to bring the bond issue to a public vote in the Aug. 3 election.

The industrial development commission will determine if DeKalb Ag-Research Inc. will be able to support the lease which repays the bond issue. DeKalb is asking for the bond to finance seed processing facilities south of Sikeston.

DeKalb has informed the city it will ask for a bond issue of only $2.5 million instead of $5 million originally sought.

Plans call for DeKalb to sign a 20-year lease, which will repay the bond issue.

The processing facility will remain in Sikeston's name, but the firm may buy the plant by paying off the bond issue early or giving the city $100 at the end of the bond payment schedule.

DeKalb will be entirely responsible for paying off the issue, and the city will incur no liability, should the company be unable to repay the bond issue.

A syndicate of bonding

companies will buy the bond issue. City Manager Charles Church said company officials told him they did not believe it was economically feasible to bid the revenue bonds.

The council reviewed the records of liquor license holders but took no action which would deny a renewal.

Records compiled by the police department showed that each drinking establishment averaged over three police calls during the five and one-half months the records covered.

The Brown Dirt Cowboy on East Center Street led the list with 19 and the Wagon Wheel Tavern on West Malone Avenue followed with nine.

Church told the council that he felt the higher number of calls to those establishments showed an improvement in cooperation of the management with the police.

Police Chief Leon Culp said he thought Sikeston has fewer problems with its drinking establishments than other cities this size.

The council authorized Mayor Don Fulton to sign a lease with Cape Central Airways for management of the Sikeston Airport.

E.P. store robbed at knife-point

EAST PRAIRIE—A young man, described as clean-cut with short hair, carrying a knife with a five-inch blade, held up the Quick Chek Shop at 203 E. Pine St. about 9:45 p.m. Monday, shortly before the shop closed, according to Deputy Sheriff Norris Girsom.

Ernest Douglas, who was operating the store owned by Steve Woods of Sikeston, told officers that the youth, who appeared to be 18 to 17 years old, came into the shop with the knife in his hand, told Douglas to get on the floor and then apparently changed his mind, ordering him to get up and put the money in a sack. Douglas' wife was also in the store.

Girsom said the robber got away with $354 in bills.

After leaving the shop, the robber got in a car, parked in front of the building, driven by another person, who also appeared to be a young man.

Roadblocks set up by the highway patrol and sheriff's deputies, failed to apprehend the subjects. The investigation is continuing by the sheriff's office.

Citizens will be notified of the spraying in advertisements in a local paper.

The bid was for one-time

spraying only.

The council also raised the speed limit on Arvin Road from Highway 114 to the city limits from 25-miles per hour to 35 m.p.h. in an attempt to take traffic off Highway 114.

Madrid bans horses from parks

NEW MADRID — The City Council passed an ordinance controlling the use of horses, motorcycles and other vehicles on city parks, appointed a civil defense board and heard reports in a short session Monday night.

The ordinance prohibiting the use of horses and other motor vehicles on public park grounds provides that on the arrest and conviction for violation of the ordinance a fine of from $5 to $100 may be imposed and up to 30 days in jail.

Mayor Jim Cravens reported on his meeting with members of the civil defense unit on June 10, noting that they had agreed to the appointment by the mayor of a five-man civil defense board. Cravens then named to that board Bob Libla, Mike Andrews,

William Kosky, Herschel Lott and Don Lloyd. All of the board members' terms will be for one year, to be effective May 1 of each year.

In his report to the council, Administrator Don Lloyd said materials for construction of a new electrical line to split the load on city circuits are now on locations and construction should proceed to erect the loop which will increase efficiency of the system by preventing line loss. This one of the recommendations made in a rate study recently completed by Phelps and Hogland Engineering Co. of Raytown.

The council agreed that it should study the report and try to determine necessary electrical system expansion

requirements and how to finance them.

Lloyd also reported that the time period for the citywide clean-up campaign has been extended for pickup of trash as the county landfill had been closed several days last week and the trash could not be disposed of.

The council approved the audits of the Municipal Light and Power Company for the period ending Dec. 31, 1975 and for the city fiscal year ending June 30, 1975.

Mosquito control was discussed and it was pointed out that fogging has begun. If necessary spraying by airplane will be used and a request has been submitted to the Federal Aviation Administration for permission to spray over the city.

The council agreed to enforce the weed control ordinance, effective July 1. Property owners allowing weeds to grow will be subject to a fine and the city will cut the weeds and assess the property owner for the charges.

The need for a no-parking sign at the intersection of Mott and Powell Streets, due to obstructed vision caused by parked cars, was discussed. Lloyd was authorized to make a survey of the intersection and to make his recommendations.

Grading of the levee adjacent to Water Street and the Capitol Street approach to the levee was authorized.

Teasdale claims lead in polls over opponent

Joseph Teasdale, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor in the Aug. 3, primary, says he is leading his opponent Sen. William J. Cason by five percentage points in polls conducted by state Republicans and in the Litton-Symington Poll.

Teasdale, who is starting a six-week swing through rural Missouri areas this week, made the statement during an interview at The Daily Standard office this morning.

Also indicating a change in campaign tactics, Teasdale said, "For the last nine months now, Sen. Cason and myself have restricted ourselves to comments about the Bond Administration. I think it's time now that we declared a moratorium on Kit Bond and face the fact that there is a primary election and the two leading contenders for the nomination are Sen. Cason and myself."

When asked what the basic differences between Cason and himself were, Teasdale replied that during a recent appearance before a Missouri press convention, he and Gov. Bond had, in response to a question about the probability of raising taxes in Missouri, agreed that the needs of the people could be serviced through state government without a tax increase. On the record, Teasdale said, Sen. Cason assailed him for that position as being irresponsible. Teasdale, calling Cason a fiscal liberal, said he (Teasdale) would not raise taxes and would veto any tax increase except a tax on corporations, the corporate wealth of Missouri. "The people won't stand for it," Teasdale said.

Teasdale said the second difference between him and Cason was that while the senator had been in state government for 16 years, he has never been an administrator.

"I have been an administrator in a major metropolitan prosecutor's office for six years in Kansas City, I have been under fire and under the scrutiny of the press in that position, I have had no connections with the traditions of Jefferson City, or the government in Jefferson City. The people, I believe are anti-Jefferson City, and I offer a great choice, I think, to the people of Missouri. I have no special interest groups, no fixed ideas, as I believe Sen. Cason does as the leader of that club down there, that clique."

Teasdale said he feels it is important that the people of Missouri know about the differences between himself and Cason, and he feels the only way to spread that knowledge is by traveling around the state and debating the issues. He said that as things look now, the Democratic nominee may well be the next governor of Missouri. "I hope he is not afraid to debate me, because I am certainly not afraid to debate him," Teasdale said, indicating he would like a face to

Madrid bans horses from parks

NEW MADRID — The City Council passed an ordinance controlling the use of horses, motorcycles and other vehicles on city parks, appointed a civil defense board and heard reports in a short session Monday night.

The ordinance prohibiting the use of horses and other motor vehicles on public park grounds provides that on the arrest and conviction for violation of the ordinance a fine of from $5 to $100 may be imposed and up to 30 days in jail.

Mayor Jim Cravens reported on his meeting with members of the civil defense unit on June 10, noting that they had agreed to the appointment by the mayor of a five-man civil defense board. Cravens then named to that board Bob Libla, Mike Andrews,

William Kosky, Herschel Lott and Don Lloyd. All of the board members' terms will be for one year, to be effective May 1 of each year.

In his report to the council, Administrator Don Lloyd said materials for construction of a new electrical line to split the load on city circuits are now on locations and construction should proceed to erect the loop which will increase efficiency of the system by preventing line loss. This one of the recommendations made in a rate study recently completed by Phelps and Hogland Engineering Co. of Raytown.

The council agreed that it should study the report and try to determine necessary electrical system expansion

requirements and how to finance them.

Lloyd also reported that the time period for the citywide clean-up campaign has been extended for pickup of trash as the county landfill had been closed several days last week and the trash could not be disposed of.

The council approved the audits of the Municipal Light and Power Company for the period ending Dec. 31, 1975 and for the city fiscal year ending June 30, 1975.

Mosquito control was discussed and it was pointed out that fogging has begun. If necessary spraying by airplane will be used and a request has been submitted to the Federal Aviation Administration for permission to spray over the city.

The council agreed to enforce the weed control ordinance, effective July 1. Property owners allowing weeds to grow will be subject to a fine and the city will cut the weeds and assess the property owner for the charges.

Burglars take food

Burglars broke into the utility room of the John Wellman home, 1009 Allen Blvd., and took food worth about $52 from the freezer, according to police.

The burglary occurred between 9 p.m. Sunday and 9 a.m. Monday.

Items taken from the freezer included pizza, pork steaks, chicken and beef roast.

A garden hoe, valued at $2 was reported stolen from the front porch of the Alice Ware home, 225 Petty St., between Monday night and this morning.

Meat taken in theft

A large quantity of meat and other items was taken from the Gaslight Square, Highway 61 East, between 3:30 a.m. and 9:45 a.m. Sunday according to Miner police officer Ed Sexton.

In addition to meat from the freezer, the thieves took money from a cigarette machine and juke box, two boxes of cigars, four cases of beer and four cases of hard liquor.

The amount of the loss has not been determined, Sexton said.

The burglars entered the building through the east door.

Drawing of proposed new Kroger Store

A new Kroger Store, containing 27,000 square feet of floor space, will be located on a site adjacent to the Big-K Store, west of S. Main St. Groundbreaking ceremonies were scheduled for this afternoon, with construction to begin immediately. Ryan Construction Co. of Sikeston will build the structure for the Village Green Development Co. This blueprint drawing shows a front view of the new store, which will also include bakery and delicatessen facilities. Number of employees and cost of construction figures were not announced by the development company.

SALT—
SOVIET STYLE

Once again we have a graphic demonstration showing how the Soviet Union misses no opportunity to exploit the USA-USSR Strategic Arms Limitation Agreement to its advantage.

This time around there are two examples, recently discussed by New York Senator James Buckley on the floor of the Senate, and in a speech to the American Defense Preparedness Association.

First, the Soviets have exceeded the total of 744 submarine-launched ballistic missiles which are permitted by the SALT I agreement of 1972. They did this when they began sea trials on their new "Delta II" submarines, each of which carries 16 missiles with a range of 4300 miles. SALT I permits a total Soviet deployment of up to 950 sea-launched missiles on 62 submarines. But before they can exceed 744, they must first phase out an equal number of older (SS-7 and SS-8) ICBMs. This they did not do. When the United States protested the violation, the Soviets excused themselves by claiming "construction difficulties" prevented the dismantling. And the U.S. accepted this lame excuse as an explanation.

The second case is more serious. It now appears that the Soviet's "SS-20" mobile missile, which had been thought to have only an "intermediate" range, is in fact being tested with smaller warheads which give it the capability of hitting the mainland of the United States. There is also evidence that launch points are being readied on the Kamchatka peninsula in the Pacific, from which all of Alaska and much of the western mainland would be within range of the SS-20 with the larger SS-16 warhead. This is a clear violation of our "unilateral understanding" in SALT I that there would be no deployment of easily concealed mobile ICBMs.

In the face of these blatant Soviet actions, it is ironic that some people in our country still talk as if it is up to us to reassure the Soviets about our intentions. How about the USSR doing something once in a while to reassure us?

More than 1,000,000 unpaid bills were left behind each month in 1975 by consumer debtors who moved without notifying their creditors, according to a recent nationwide survey of members just released by the American Collectors Association.

These unpaid bills total $100,000,000 each month, and ultimately increase the prices being paid by those customers who pay their bills as promised.

The increased mobility of the American people and what seems to be a decreased concern for personal responsibility are making "skips" a major problem for creditors.

FEE FAIRNESS FED AFFAIRS?

Proposed legislation in Congress has frosted the ivy at a number of the nation's institutions of higher learning, including the Ivy League. Senate bill 2657, an amendment to the Higher Education Act, would establish federal standards, and provide federal remedies, for the fair allocation of student activity fees at every school receiving funds under the Higher Education Act.

In a strong statement presented to the Senate by the legal officers of the Ivy League Institutions and Stanford University, the proposal is characterized as "a prime example of the legal pollution which currently threatens the nation's educational environment."

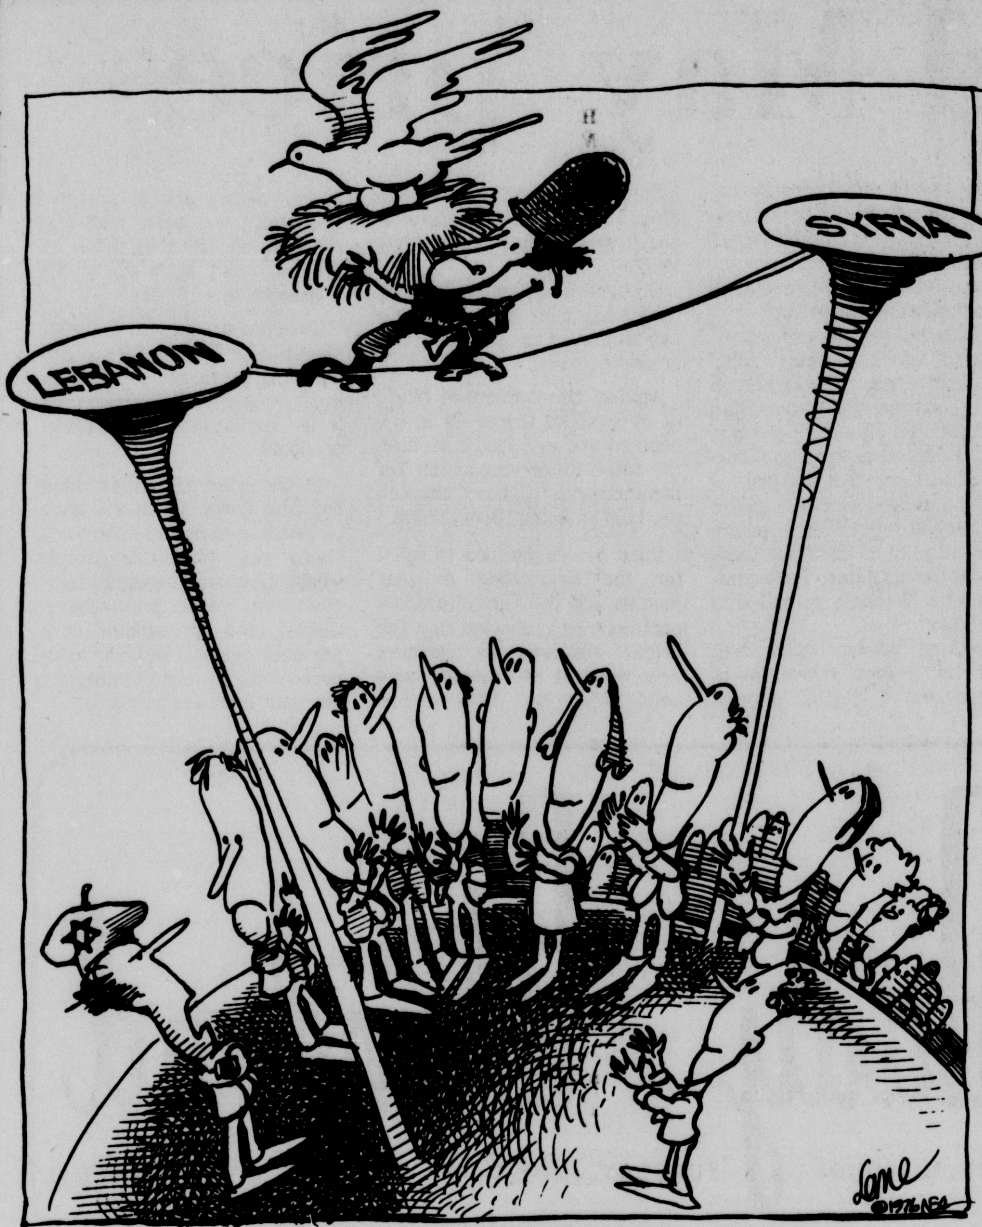

If the proposal were enacted, the statement continues, student groups, which often feel that the activities fee pie has not been cut fairly, would have a federal law and a federal forum in which to pursue their grievances—at a time when the Chief Justice of the United States is already decrying the shortage of federal judges to deal with the present caseload.

"Questions as trivial as whether permission is granted to hold a bake sale could be litigated in the federal courts," the attorneys claim.

Fairness in the allocation of student activity fees is an important objective, they concede, "but not an important federal objective." While the intent of the amendment might well be adopted by individual institutions of higher learning, what they object to is "the increasing propensity of federal government to intrude randomly into day-to-day operations of our colleges and universities and descend to progressively trivial levels of the educational process."

'REVOLUTION' IN BOTH PARTIES
If we are reading the signs right, the establishments in both the Democratic and Republican parties have failed to accommodate ongoing demographic and economic changes in America and had also defaulted on the various aspects of the social issue.
The anticipated "revolution" has now struck both Establishments. Its advocates, Carter and Reagan, arrive on the political scene as outsiders. Both, significantly enough, represent the South-Southwestern Sun Belt or Rimland that is in the present period the most dynamic section of the country.

In the Democratic Party the rout of the Establishment has occurred with a suddenness surprising even to Mr. Carter himself. Birch, Mo., Scoop and Old Hubert collapsed like spent balloons. Six months ago, who would have predicted that the 1976 Democratic nominee would come from Plains, Georgia, and that he would oppose forced busing and abortion, favor increased defense spending, criticize détente as a one-way street, oppose special aid to New York City, insist that the U.S. retain "practical control" over the Panama Canal, and present himself to the electorate as conspicuously Christian. As in every upheaval, the reaction of the defeated Establishment has been marked by farce. NY Times, James Reston continues to call Carter "Wee Jimmy." Ole Hubert claims that he is ready to "educate" Carter.

Because the Republicans now control the White House, the revolution in that party initially faced greater resistance. But the Republicans, especially in Congress, watched Reagan take Texas and then scoring victories in Georgia, Alabama, and Indiana.

For years the pundits have been telling us that because the Republicans are a minority party, their national nominee must appeal to Democrats and Independents in order to prevail—i.e., must appeal, as they see it, to swing liberal voters. Now that Reagan has been attracting thousands of Democrats and Independents—but conservative ones—it is being suggested that his triumphs are therefore somewhat tainted. On the contrary, Reagan, after a tentative start, has launched the kind of revolution within the Republican Party that has been clearly necessary if the Republicans are to have any long-range future at all.

Today, both Republican and Democratic Establishments offer themselves to the nation as custodians of the policies and institutions of the Great Society, and the message from the nation is "no sale." Once again, initiated by Wallace, and carried on more respectably by Carter and Reagan, the popular protest speaks out against the Northeastern Establishment from the outsider South and West.

As far as 1976 is concerned, the shape of coming events is difficult to foresee. Carter, conceivably, could be captured and domesticated by the Democratic liberal Establishment, temporarily stalling change in that party. His insurgency could lose its character and meaning. As a result of the Ford-Reagan fight, the Republicans could approach the election in shambles. This would imply a period of party renovation looking toward recovery in 1980; or even a split. Carter, it is far from inconceivable, could make the Democrats into a national party responsive to the majority once again, and run against a Ford carrying the can of Great Society programs and a bankrupt foreign policy. It is interesting that Carter himself says that he would be a "watershed" President. Or, again, Reagan could seize the nomination and outflank Carter as the candidate of post-liberal populism and nationalism. Whatever the final outcome, however, the inevitable revolution is now under way in both major parties.

CHANGES ARE NEEDED
FOR SOCIAL SECURITY
FUNDING

In a moment of incautious honesty, Ronald Reagan suggested that people should give serious thought to Social Security's problems, and look into the possibility of investing some of the funds in the stock market, etc. Now, Social Security is a subject politicians simply must not talk about. Since then, Sen. Jackson hasn't stopped "reminding" us that Reagan wants to invest Social Security's dollars in the market—the implication being that Reagan wants to bankrupt it (though the market has gone up 17 per cent this year).

As it happens, Social Security is mostly just a shell game. It doesn't hold the dollars you pay in today until you retire tomorrow. It pays them right out this afternoon to someone else who has already retired. And the time is almost upon us when it will be paying those dollars out yesterday evening. If Social Security were a private pension plan, we would say it was bankrupt. Because it is run by Washington, we can only call it "unfunded," and say that because the government has the power to compel contributions, the system will continue to work. But the power to compel contributions exists only so long as the voters want it to. And workers—those who pay the money-in—outnumber retirees.

In the winter issue of "The Public Interest," Peter F. Drucker wrote some of the best sense ever on Social Security and private pension plans. Social Security, Drucker reminds us, was founded (in the mid-30s) on two principles: it would be gradually expanded until it became the universal retirement system in the U.S.; and it would be insurance, not welfare. Contributions would be set aside and reserves would be actuarially sound. But both principles having long since been abandoned, it might be wiser now to consider revamping what's left of the Social Security structure, especially in light of the growth of private pension plans.

Did you know that through their pension funds employees of American business, self-employed people, public employees, and teachers own more than a third of the equity capital of American business? By 1985 the figure will be one-half. Drucker points out that the American worker owns a larger section of the American economy (outside farming) than Allende proposed to bring under government ownership to make Chile a "socialist country." And more than Cuba, Yugoslavia, or Poland has nationalized. America is pensionized. The pension plan is actually the employer today, as well as the major source of capital formation. And the pensions share profits (dividends) roughly equally with the tax collector and all other shareholders.

Today in the U.S. more than one-tenth of the population is over 65 and more than a quarter over fifty. In other words people live longer and have to be supported longer, either by themselves (by working) or by others (through pension plans). That's half the problem. The other half is that we are now facing a labor shortage. The 23-million-plus people over 65 form one-tenth of the whole population, but equal a quarter of the working population. And during the next few decades the labor force will grow more slowly as a result of the "baby bust" that began in 1960, which will cause the dependency ratio, now one to four, to decline to one to three—i.e., each dependent will be supported by three workers instead of four.

Drucker suggests that for two-thirds to three-quarters of the work force, Social Security should become the re-insurer of the real insurance plan—the employee's pension plan. For the remaining fraction of the population, Social Security would become—what it is already rapidly becoming: a welfare program that supports the needy aged, the handicapped, and the disabled. There is already talk of financing Social Security out of general tax revenues; and contributions to private pension plans are tax deductible—an incentive to workers to go that route. Will workers, who outnumber retirees, continue to vote for high Social Security payouts that require high "contributions" from them? Changes are needed to meet the new realities. It's too bad the politicians don't dare talk about them.

DIFFERENT

ADDRESS

We've wondered what would happen if some speaker told it like it is to the graduates at their commencement exercise—such as:

College students like you will probably pay in direct and indirect taxes more than 40 per cent of what you earn in life—some much more. And taxes will affect your life in many ways other than extracting dollars.

The "typical" fully employed American begins to work for himself about May 1st—or on a daily basis after about 2½ hours. Before that he is working for "the collective"—Federal, state and local governments. And the family that saves for financial security would find, if it could see the full reality, that governments take no small fraction of what the property produces—often much over half.

Taxes and government spending have been outstanding growth "industries" of modern times. Government spending per capita in dollars of today's purchasing power was around $1,130 (Federal, state and local) in 1955. In slightly more than the twenty years of your lifetime the real increase has averaged $244 per year to a total of $9,409 for a family of four.

Are we getting our money's worth? How much better, really, is the "collective" sphere of life—which we use to get most schooling, streets, defense, policing, welfare, retirement pensions, governmental health services, and now hundreds of "subprograms"—how much better than a quarter of a century or a decade ago? In some cases there has been improvement. But would private use of, say, half of the increase of tax have produced more of what people want?

We come into the world with rather little ability. Through the years we do a great deal. We progress from helpless children to adults who are often capable of amazing achievements. These accomplishments, sometimes reflecting progress from generation to generation, depend upon the conditions we create and the framework within which men and women are free to use their capacities.

Looking over the sweep of history, one sees improvements beyond measure. But are we smarter than Plato or Newton, more gifted than Rembrandt or Michelangelo, more humane than St. Francis and his disciples, more inventive than da Vinci or Edison, more scientific than Copernicus or Pasteur, keener observers than the astronomers of Egypt or the Mayas, better writers than Shakespeare or King David? Personal qualities of imagination, courage, sensitivity, business acumen, toughness, diplomacy, and so on make for a better as against poorer life. All of recorded history offers examples of outstanding human capacity. What conditions favor its flowering? One is the availability of non-human assistance—capital. Another is the hope of reward, of which money is not the least important, after tax.

You still have a choice between individual enterprise or complete government regulation and control—but it will may be decided in the election of 1976, the 200th birthday of America.

WASHINGTON
MERRY-GO-ROUND*CIA Sex Shop

By Jack Anderson
with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON—In contrast to the haphazard sex on Capitol Hill, the Central Intelligence Agency for years has conducted an elaborate and efficient sex operation.

Few national secrets have been more carefully guarded, but the CIA has provided kings, presidents, potentates and magistrates with female companionship. On a lower level, girls have been made available to defectors and the CIA's own agents.

Sometimes, the CIA's guests bring their own partners. More often, the agency selects girls from its vice files according to specification. The agency also provides "safe houses" where the liaisons can be consummated in protected privacy.

The CIA's sex shop, according to sources in a position to know, is run by the Office of Security. Although this division has many functions, it acts primarily as the CIA's internal police force.

Through field offices scattered around the country, the Office of Security maintains close ties with state and local police forces. In each field office, a "black book" is kept of the males and females who can be safely recruited to entertain the CIA's visitors.

names, phone numbers and titillating details, which are gleaned largely from local vice squads. In Washington, for example, CIA agents used to pay regular visits to the police department's vice squad to photograph documents.

The late Deputy Chief Roy E. Blick, who headed the "sex squad" for years, kept exhaustive records on "perverts" and "miscreants" around the country. He had a close, backroom relationship with the CIA, say our sources.

During the 1964-74 period, the sex operation was supervised by security director Harold Osborn. Some of his subordinates, according to our sources, regaled their friends with stories about the sex episodes they were privy to. As they told it, they were called upon to fill some occasional bizarre requests.

Each black book entry, according to sources with access to the files, contains some fascinating vital statistics—physical description, measurements, health status and sexual specialties.

This inside information is used to produce sexual partners for princes and potentates, defectors and agents. The congressional investigations of the CIA, however, skirted the sex operation. The House Intelligence Committee stumbled onto the information that the CIA once provided an unidentified Middle East monarch with female companions. We have learned that the king in question was Jordan's Hussein.

It's the CIA's own foreign agents, coming in from the cold, who make the most use of the "safe houses." When an undercover operative reports back to the United States, he is whisked to a "safe house" and a "case officer" is assigned to watch over him.

The officer is supposed to keep his charge happy and to provide for his needs. If occasionally the need should be sexual, the right contact in the Office of Security is called upon, the black book is whipped out and the desired companion is procured.

The CIA uses sex for an even more seamy purpose. As we reported over a year ago, the agency has used prostitutes to lure foreign diplomats into love traps where their sexual antics were filmed through one-way mirrors. The film was later used to blackmail the foreigners into becoming informants.

In New York, the CIA maintained adjoining efficiency apartments on the sixth floor of a high-rise building in Greenwich Village. On the wall of the blackmail apartment was a large painting of two ships. But the painting was actually a one-way mirror.

On the other side of the wall, CIA agents could watch the action through the see-through painting and film the most intimate moments. The painting was strategically placed so that it gave the CIA observers a full view of the sofa, which opened into a bed. A Japanese screen, implanted with microphones, provided the sound for the CIA's blackmail movies.

In San Francisco, the CIA operated a similar apartment equipped only with bugging devices, not observation mirrors. The New York apartment was used from about 1960 to 1966, the San Francisco apartment from the late 1960s to about 1965.

Footnote: We confronted Harold Osborn with the facts about the sex operation. He denied that any such operation was conducted "during my tenure." A CIA spokesman had no comment. Our calls to the Washington police and Jordanian embassy had not been returned at press time.

Washington Whirl: At the end of a grueling day, President Ford takes a plunge in the White House pool to relieve the tensions. He usually manages to get into the pool about 8 p.m., but sometimes he doesn't make it until late at night. The murder in Lebanon last week of U.S. Ambassador Francis Meloy Jr., for example, upset the President and kept him at his desk later than usual. But a late-night swim helped to revive the exhausted and depressed Ford.

Before Myron Kuropas left the Action Agency to become President Ford's ethnic affairs adviser, he issued some intertemporal instructions to his staff. "In view of the inordinate number of meetings being held by women during the past month, no additional meetings are to be held by women without prior authorization..." He told us he regretted writing the memo. His intent, he said, was to get the women on his staff to work more and talk less.

Democratic Establishments
offer themselves to the nation as custodians of the policies and institutions of the Great Society,
and the message from the nation
is "no sale." Once again, initiated by Wallace, and carried on more respectably by Carter and Reagan, the popular protest speaks out against the Northeastern Establishment
from the outsider South and West.

As far as 1976 is concerned,
the shape of coming events is difficult to foresee. Carter, conceivably, could be captured
and domesticated by the Democratic liberal Establishment, temporarily stalling change in that party. His insurgency could lose its character and meaning. As a result of the Ford-Reagan fight,
the Republicans could approach

the election in shambles. This would imply a period of party
renovation looking toward recovery in 1980; or even a split.
Carter, it is far from inconceivable, could make the Democrats into a national party
responsive to the majority once again, and run against a Ford
carrying the can of Great Society programs and a bankrupt foreign policy. It is interesting that Carter himself
says that he would be a
"watershed" President. Or,
again, Reagan could seize the nomination and outflank Carter
as the candidate of post-liberal populism and nationalism.
Whatever the final outcome,
however, the inevitable
revolution is now under way in both major parties.

CHANGES ARE NEEDED
FOR SOCIAL SECURITY
FUNDING

In a moment of incautious
honesty, Ronald Reagan
suggested that people should give serious thought to Social Security's problems, and look into the possibility of investing
some of the funds in the stock market, etc. Now, Social Security is a subject politicians
simply must not talk about.
Since then, Sen. Jackson hasn't stopped "reminding" us that Reagan wants to invest Social Security's dollars in the market—
the implication being that Reagan wants to bankrupt it (though the market has gone up 17 per cent this year).

As it happens, Social Security
is mostly just a shell game. It doesn't hold the dollars you pay
in today until you retire
tomorrow. It pays them right out this afternoon to someone else who has already retired.
And the time is almost upon us
when it will be paying those dollars out yesterday evening. If Social Security were a private pension plan, we would say it was bankrupt. Because it is run by Washington, we can only call
it "unfunded," and say that because the government has the power to compel contributions,
the system will continue to work. But the power to compel contributions exists only so long as the voters want it to. And workers—those who pay the money in—outnumber retirees.

In the winter issue of "The Public Interest," Peter F.
Drucker wrote some of the best
sense ever on Social Security
and private pension plans.
Social Security, Drucker
reminds us, was founded (in the mid-30s) on two principles: it would be gradually expanded
until it became the universal
retirement system in the U.S.;
and it would be insurance, not welfare. Contributions would be set aside and reserves would be actuarially sound. But both principles having long since been abandoned, it might be wiser now to consider revamping what's left of the Social Security structure, especially in light of the growth of private pension plans.

Did you know that through their pension funds employees of American business, self-
employed people, public employees, and teachers own more than a third of the equity capital of American business? By 1985
the figure will be one-half.
Drucker points out that the American worker owns a larger section of the American economy (outside farming) that Allende proposed to bring under government ownership to make Chile a "socialist country." And more than Cuba, Yugoslavia, or Poland has nationalized.

America is pensionized. The pension plan is actually the employer today, as well as the major source of capital formation. And the pensions share profits (dividends) roughly
equally with the tax collector
and all other shareholders.

Today in the U.S. more than one-tenth of the population is over 65 and more than a quarter
over fifty. In other words people live longer and have to be supported longer, either by themselves (by working) or by others (through pension plans).
That's half the problem. The other half is that we are now facing a labor shortage. The 23-million-plus people over 65 form
one-tenth of the whole
population, but equal a quarter of the working population. And during the next few decades the labor force will grow more slowly as a result of the "baby
bust" that began in 1960, which will cause the dependency
ratio, now one to four, to decline to one to three—i.e., each dependent will be supported by three workers instead of four.

Drucker suggests that for two-thirds to three-quarters of the work force, Social Security
should become the re-insurer of
the real insurance plan—the employee's pension plan. For the remaining fraction of the population, Social Security
would become—what it is already rapidly becoming: a welfare program that supports
the needy aged, the handicapped, and the disabled.
There is already talk of financing Social Security out of general tax revenues; and contributions to private pension
plans are tax deductible—an incentive to workers to go that route. Will workers, who outnumber retirees, continue to vote for high Social Security
payouts that require high
"contributions" from them? Changes are needed to meet the new realities. It's too bad the politicians don't dare talk about them.

DIFFERENT
COMMENCEMENT
ADDRESS

We've wondered what would happen if some speaker told it
like it is to the graduates at their commencement exercise—such
as:

College students like you will probably pay in direct and indirect taxes more than 40 per cent of what you earn in life-
some much more. And taxes will affect your life in many ways
other than extracting dollars.

The "typical" fully employed American begins to work for himself about May 1st—or on a daily basis after about 2½ hours.

Before that he is working for "the collective"—Federal, state and local governments. And the family that saves for financial security would find, if it could see the full reality, that governments take no small fraction of what the property
produces—often much over half.

Taxes and government
spending have been outstanding growth "industries" of modern times. Government spending per capita in dollars of today's purchasing power was around $1,130 (Federal, state and local) in 1955. In slightly more than the twenty years of your lifetime the real increase has averaged $244
per year to a total of $9,409 for a family of four.

Are we getting our money's worth? How much better, really,
is the "collective" sphere of life-
which we use to get most schooling, streets, defense,
policing, welfare, retirement
pensions, governmental health
services, and now hundreds of "subprograms"—how much better than a quarter of a century or a decade ago? In some cases there has been improvement. But would private use of, say, half of the increase
of tax have produced more of what people want?

We come into the world with rather little ability. Through the years we do a great deal. We progress from helpless children
to adults who are often capable
of amazing achievements.
These accomplishments, sometimes reflecting progress
from generation to generation,
depend upon the conditions we create and the framework
within which men and women
are free to use their capacities.

Looking over the sweep of history, one sees improvements
beyond measure. But are we smarter than Plato or Newton,
more gifted than Rembrandt or Michelangelo, more humane than St. Francis and his disciples, more inventive than da Vinci or Edison, more scientific than Copernicus or Pasteur, keener observers than the astronomers of Egypt or the Mayas, better writers than Shakespeare or King David?

Personal qualities of imagination, courage, sensitivity, business acumen,
toughness, diplomacy, and so on
make for a better as against poorer life. All of recorded history offers examples of outstanding human capacity.
What conditions favor its flowering? One is the availability of non-human assistance—capital. Another is the hope of reward, of which
money is not the least important, after tax.

You still have a choice between individual enterprise or complete government
regulation and control—but it will may be decided in the election of 1976, the 200th birthday of America.

them more easily spot each

indicated the wearer was

WASHINGTON
MERRY-GO-ROUND

CIA Sex Shop

By Jack Anderson
with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — In contrast to the haphazard sex on Capitol
Hill, the Central Intelligence Agency for years has conducted
an elaborate and efficient sex
operation.

Few national secrets have been more carefully guarded,
but the CIA has provided kings,
presidents, potentates and magistrates with female companionship. On a lower level, girls have been made available to defectors and the CIA's own agents.

Sometimes, the CIA's guests
bring their own partners. More often, the agency selects girls
from its vice files according to specification. The agency also provides "safe houses" where the liaisons can be consummated in protected privacy.

The CIA's sex shop, according
to sources in a position to know,
is run by the Office of Security.
Although this division has many functions, it acts primarily as the CIA's internal police force.

Through field offices scattered around the country, the Office of Security maintains close ties
with state and local police forces. In each field office, a
"black book" is kept of the males
and females who can be safely
recruited to entertain the CIA's visitors.

The black books contain

names, phone numbers and titillating details, which are gleaned largely from local vice squad. In Washington, for example, CIA agents used to pay regular visits to the police department's vice squad to photograph documents.

The late Deputy Chief Roy E.
Blick, who headed the "sex
squad" for years, kept exhaustive records on "perverts" and
"miscreants" around the country.
He had a close, backroom relationship with the CIA, say our sources.

During the 1964-74 period, the sex operation was supervised by security director Harold Osborn.
Some of his subordinates, according to our sources, regaled
their friends with stories about
the sex episodes they were privy
to. As they told it, they were called upon to fill some occasional bizarre requests.

Each black book entry, according to sources with access to the files, contains some fascinating vital statistics—physical
description, measurements,
health status and sexual specialties.

This information is used
to produce sexual partners for princes and potentates, defectors
and agents. The congressional investigations of the CIA,
however, skirted the sex operation. The House Intelligence Committee stumbled onto the information that the CIA once provided an unidentified Middle East monarch with female companions. We have learned that the king in question was Jordan's Hussein.

It's the CIA's own foreign
agents, coming in from the cold,
who make the most use of the "safe houses." When an undercover operative reports back to the United States, he is whisked
to a "safe house" and a "case of ficer" is assigned to watch over him.

The officer is supposed to keep his charge happy and to provide for his needs. If occasionally the need should be sexual, the right
contact in the Office of Security is called upon, the black book is whipped out and the desired
companion is procured.

The CIA uses sex for an even more seamy purpose. As we reported over a year ago, the agency has used prostitutes to lure foreign diplomats into love
traps where their sexual antics
were filmed through one-way
mirrors. The film was later used to blackmail the foreigners into becoming informants.

In New York, the CIA maintained adjoining efficiency
apartments on the sixth floor of a high-rise building in Greenwich Village. On the wall of the blackmail apartment was a large painting of two ships. But the painting was actually a one-
way mirror.

On the other side of the wall,
CIA agents could watch the action through the see-through painting and film the most in-imate moments. The painting was strategically placed so that it gave the CIA observers a full view of the sofa, which opened
into a bed. A Japanese screen,

implanted with microphones,
provided the sound for the CIA's blackmail movies.

In San Francisco, the CIA
operated a similar apartment
equipped only with bugging
devices, not observation mirrors.
The New York apartment was used from about 1960 to 1966, the San Francisco apartment from the late 1950s to about 1965.

Footnote: We confronted Harold Osborn with the facts about the sex operation. He denied that any such operation
was conducted "during my tenure." A CIA spokesman had no comment. Our calls to the Washington police and Jordan-
ian embassy had not been returned at press time.

Washington Whirl: At the end of a grueling day, President
Ford takes a plunge in the White House pool to relieve the tensions. He usually manages to get into the pool about 8 p.m., but sometimes he doesn't make it until late at night. The murder in Lebanon last week of U.S. Ambassador Francis Meloy Jr., for example, upset the President
and kept him at his desk later than usual. But a late-night swim
helped to revive the exhausted
and depressed Ford.

Before Myron Kuropas left the Action Agency to become President Ford's ethnic affairs adviser, he issued some interper-et instructions to his staff. "In view of the inordinate number of meetings being held by women
during the past month, no additional meetings are to be held by women without prior authorization." He told us he regretted writing the memo. His intent, he said, was to get the women on his staff to work more and talk less.

Writers have usually assumed that Molly Pitcher was carrying drinking water to thirsty soldiers on the battlefield at Monmouth when in fact she was probably engaged in a vital military task. Water was an essential element in the firing of artillery. After the cannon was discharged, the barrel had to be swabbed with water prior to reloading. Molly Pitcher was probably carrying water for the guns. The World Almanac notes.

Writers have usually assumed that Molly Pitcher was carrying drinking water to thirsty soldiers on the battlefield at Monmouth when in fact she was probably engaged in a vital military task. Water was an essential element in the firing of artillery. After the cannon was discharged, the barrel had to be swabbed with water prior to reloading. Molly Pitcher was probably carrying water for the guns, The World Almanac notes.

Beef, pork prices generally lower

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Retail beef and pork prices were generally lower this week, following two weeks in which one or the other recorded soaring price hikes, according to the weekly marketbasket survey by the Missouri Farm Bureau.

Sirloin steak led the decline in beef prices, dropping nine cents a pound to $1.82, followed by T-Bone steak, which fell seven cents to $2.03 a pound.

Round steak and blade roast were both two cents a pound cheaper at $1.49 and 83 cents respectively while ground beef remained steady at 79 cents a pound.

Only rib steak and arm roast recorded price increases, both rising a penny a pound to $1.67 and $1.15 respectively.

Pork blade roast was six cents cheaper this week at $1.32 a pound and center cut chops were three cents lower at $1.79 a pound.

A shank portion of ham was down three cents to $1, but the butt portion rose two cents a pound to $1.13 marking the only pork cut to increase in price this week.

Pork steak at $1.37 a pound remained unchanged from a week ago, according to the survey of selected food items at 50 stores across the state.

Chicken rose in price for the first time in a month with whole fryers up a penny a pound to 53 cents and cut up parts up two cents a pound to 61 cents.

A gallon of milk remained unchanged for the fourth straight week with whole milk at $1.56 and 2 per cent at $1.49.

A dozen grade A Eggs were higher in all classes with extra large up a nickel to 79 cents, large up four cents to 73 cents and medium up a penny to 66 cents.

A 1 1/2-pound loaf of white bread was unchanged at 65 cents while the 10-pound bag of red potatoes dropped a dime to $1.58.

Playing the piano- it's never too late

CHICAGO (AP) — Across America, adults by the thousand are taking piano lessons they missed out on as kids — and loving it, no matter what their age, according to the National Piano Manufacturers Association.

A good example is the 91-year-old student whom veteran Buffalo, N.Y., piano teacher Irving Shire has recently taught to improvise on the instrument.

"He was my student when he was 88," says Shire. "I told him he was just the right age to study piano." He is just one of thousands of adults across the country who are discovering that their age is the "right" age.

The piano has long enjoyed the honor of being the most popular instrument in the United States. More than 200,000 new pianos are sold every year, according to the association, and of the nearly 38 million amateur musicians in this country, 47 per cent are pianists.

It is not surprising, then, that adults who turn to music in their leisure time often turn to the piano.

When they do, they're in for a very pleasant surprise. Gone are the endless scales and exercises once thought to be the only starting point for beginning piano students.

"I start right in teaching little pieces to my adult students," says Eva Rautenberg of Buffalo. "There are special books for adults who have never had lessons, with adaptations of familiar compositions." To their delight, many adults who have studied a fairly short time find themselves in demand at parties.

Group piano is another fairly recent innovation in adult piano teaching methodology.

Some octopi can change from shades of light aqua to a deep red-brown within seconds, blending with the sea or mimicking a coral mass to fool their prey and enemies.

Polly's Pointers

Word of advice on dry cleaner

By Polly Cramer

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — My white crepe blouse went to the dry cleaner with the pants suit it matches. It came back with rust stains on it that I cannot remove after trying many things. There was also a mark on the velvet pants suit. Any suggestions? —DEBBY.

DEAR DEBBY — My suggestion is that you made a grave error in not taking your blouse and suit back to the dry cleaner. If they made the spots they should have removed them. —POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with newspaper people who do not keep track of the pages on which coupons are run, and print them on both sides of the page, thus making some unusable.

I am sure the sponsoring food companies do not appreciate this either. Attached is a sample and I was the loser as I use products on both sides and was not able to utilize two I wanted. This is not the first time I have had this happen. —SHIRLEY.

DEAR POLLY — Before starting to paint around the house glue a paper plate to the bottom of the can so it catches any paint drips. This also provides a handy place to lay the brush when not in use. —MARY T.

DEAR POLLY — Packing suitcases is my long suit as I have been an Air Force wife for 20 years and visited 22 foreign countries. I choose polyester type clothes as often as possible, fold neatly and then roll each item into a "jelly roll" to go in the suitcase. A piece of cardboard with a slit in it and a balloon stuck in it are put in my suitcase. Blow up the balloon and you have a wig stand. Thought those planning summer vacations might like this. —BETTYE JUNE.

DEAR POLLY — To hard boil eggs without cracking them I take the eggs out of the refrigerator at the time I put the water on to boil. When it starts to boil I dip a large spoon in the water, set the egg in the water in the spoon and wait for the egg to warm before lowering it into the pan of water. This has always kept them from cracking when I boil them. —MRS. E.O.P.

DEAR POLLY — When I see a card that "fits" for someone's birthday, etc. I buy it right then, address the envelope, put the mailing date where the stamp will eventually go and keep all these filed by dates. One look at them and I am reminded and do not miss special dates, nor forget to buy a card. I never have the trouble of trying to find the right one at the right time. If you do this think how many happy messages you can send that might otherwise be forgotten.

Just for a giggle, Polly, remembering names is my hang-up so I try to associate the names with words, things and so on. Well, I have learned to be careful about that as I told an old lady (like me) to just remember what we did to the pump when the water would not come for remembering my name (it is Prime). She introduced me all evening as 'yes, you guessed it —Mrs. Pump.' —MRS. G.M.P.

Ann Landers

Husband enjoys beating

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from the man who didn't believe some women actually beat up their husbands hit very close to home. It also gives me an opportunity to get something off my chest. I've never mentioned it to a soul. Please, Ann, no name or city must appear with this letter.

My sister confided in me several months ago that her husband INSISTS that she hit him with a belt when he does something that displeases her.

She said at first she was shocked and refused to do it, but he begged her until she agreed. When she hits him he often says, "Harder, I deserve it!" — or, "Don't stop. I need more."

This has been going on for five years. She beats him about every two or three months. Afterwards, she says he is very loving and sweet and behaves like an angel for several weeks.

To all the world they appear to be an ideal couple. What do you make of it? — Strictly Entre Nous

Dear Noss: The guy is sick. Like very. His mother probably beat him with a belt when he was growing up and periodically he has an uncontrollable urge to go back to those days. There are more people like that around than you think. Usually it's the wife who wants to be beaten. It's interesting that severely neurotic people seem to marry partners willing to satisfy the neurotic need.

Dear Ann Landers: I found a definition for success in a library book at the Great Lakes Naval Training Center about 25 years ago. I have recopied it many times because I carry it in my wallet and have worn out several. Perhaps you would like to share it with your readers. No one seems to know who wrote it.

SUCCESS

"To laugh often and love much; to win the respect of intelligent persons and the affection of children; to earn the approbation of honest critics and endure the betrayal of false friends; to appreciate beauty; to find the best in others; to give of one's self; to leave the world a bit better, whether by a healthy child, a garden patch or a redeemed social condition; to have played and laughed with enthusiasm and sung with exultation; to know even one life has breathed easier because you have lived — this is to have succeeded." — A Devoted Reader

Dear Reader: I printed that beautiful definition of success in my column several years ago but it is well worth repeating. Thank you for sending it along.

Dear Ann Landers: Is there anything wrong with "soul kissing"? I'm sure you know what I mean. Older people call it French kissing.

My boyfriend says it's a health hazard. I say it isn't. We are both exposed to a lot of people during the day but we usually have a couple of drinks before we engage in soul kissing. I contend that the alcohol is enough to kill any germs that might be in a person's mouth.

I become very upset when he begins to lecture me about how unsanitary my kisses are. Please print this letter and your answer and I sure hope you are on my side. —Sarasota Kisses

Dear Sarasota: Soul kissing is no more of a health hazard than brother-sister kissing unless one of the parties has an infectious disease. Heavy petting after a few drinks could lead to another problem. Pregnancy.

Surprise party given

Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Ivy

NEW MADRID — Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Ivy of New Madrid were honored Sunday at their home with a surprise 25th anniversary celebration hosted by their three children, friends and relatives.

Ivy and the former Marilyn Shaw of Risco were married June 23, 1951 in Pocahontas,

Ark. Their children are Georgia Ivy of Memphis, Tenn. and Kevin and Leslie Ivy of the home.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Scott of Risco, who were the couple's wedding attendants, were among the 37 guests who attended the celebration.

Simple Dessert

Vanilla ice cream lends itself to such versatile treatment that it is a comfort to have on hand if you are a busy hostess who sometimes offers impulsive invitations! You can choose last-minute toppings from what's in the refrigerator or pantry. A few suggestions: maple syrup with toasted walnuts; crushed (medium-fine) chocolate almond toffee or peanut brittle; diced oranges combined with finely cut preserved or candied ginger and a little honey; raisins soaked in rum.

For a simple, good dessert, combine sliced bananas with roasted diced almonds. Drizzle with rum-flavored chocolate sauce and dollop with whipped cream.

"Rub both sides of 4 thin slices of baby beef liver with the cut sides of a clove of garlic. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Cut into 1-inch wide strips. Melt ¼ pound butter in a large skillet until sizzling hot but not brown. Add liver and cook no more than a few minutes, just enough to turn over the strips a couple of times and gently shake them around. (I sing one stanza of The Star Spangled Banner.) Remove the liver to a heated platter. Add 2½ tablespoons of lemon juice and ¼ cup of finely chopped parsley to the butter in the skillet and mix gently and heat. Pour over liver and serve immediately. Makes 4 servings, but at our house it's really only for 2 or 3 the way the Bergers eat!" — Contributed by Sue Berger of Pennsylvania.

Candidates' wives discuss the ERA

NEW YORK (AP) — Betty Ford and Rosalynn Carter support the proposed Equal Rights Amendment to the Constitution. Nancy Reagan is opposed to the amendment.

The three were quoted in interviews with the wives of presidential candidates published Monday in the July issue of Ladies' Home Journal.

"I'm for the ER — I'm not for the A," said Mrs. Reagan, wife of President Ford's Republican challenger, Ronald Reagan. "Everyone should have equal pay, equal opportunity, equal rights. But I don't think the best way to go about giving it to people is the amendment process."

Both Mrs. Ford and Mrs. Carter, wife of likely Democratic candidate Jimmy Carter, said they support of the amendment, designed to assure women equal treatment. It has been approved by 34 states, four short of the number needed for ratification.

Sub-par McGlothen struggles but gets by New York 7-2

ST. LOUIS (AP) — In the estimation of the St. Louis Cardinals, Lynn McGlothen's "nickel changeups" had a value more like gold.

That's all the Cards right-hander maintained he had Monday night, but his pitches were enough to stymie the New York Mets 7-2 with the aid of Al Hrabosky's relief.

"I guess you could say baseball's still a game of inches," McGlothen, 6-6, mused after toiling six innings and yielding a single run on six hits.

"They hit the ball well," he acknowledged. "If there'd been a couple in the gap it would have been a different game."

McGlothen's contention dealing with the importance of inches drew support from New York left-hander Jerry Koosman, 6-6, the victim of five St. Louis runs en route to his fifth straight defeat.

"I was just wild and when I didn't make a good pitch they hit it," said Koosman, whose problems stemmed mainly from off-target curves.

"I wasn't getting it over," he said of the recalcitrant pitch, "and when I wasn't getting it over they were just sitting on the hard stuff."

One who waited for Koosman's fast ball was McGlothen, who arrived at the plate in the second inning after Mike Anderson singled and was forced by a single Tyson.

McGlothen fouled off a pitch after Koosman fell behind 2-1, then fought off an inside offering to drill a single over third base.

Bake McBride followed with a walk to load the bases, and Don Kessinger and Lou Brock hammered successive singles producing three Cards runs.

Three more St. Louis runs, one on a fifth-inning McGlothen suicide squeeze bunt, later crossed the plate to establish a 6-1 lead before the Cards pitcher ran into a jam.

Then, after Ed Kranepool walked and Del Unser singled to open the Mets' seventh, Hrabosky came on to preserve the cushion and ultimately surrender an unearned run in the ninth.

Concurring with McGlothen's evaluation of his pitching was St. Louis coach Bob Milliken.

Sub-par McGlothen struggles but gets by New York 7-2

ST. LOUIS (AP) — In the estimation of the St. Louis Cardinals, Lynn McGlothen's "nickel changeups" had a value more like gold.

That's all the Cards right-hander maintained he had Monday night, but his pitches were enough to stymie the New York Mets 7-2 with the aid of Al Hrabosky's relief.

"I guess you could say baseball's still a game of inches," McGlothen, 6-6, mused after toiling six innings and yielding a single run on six hits.

"They hit the ball well," he acknowledged. "If there'd been a couple in the gap it would have been a different game."

McGlothen's contention dealing with the importance of inches drew support from New York left-hander Jerry Koosman, 6-6, the victim of five St. Louis runs en route to his fifth straight defeat.

"I was just wild and when I didn't make a good pitch they hit it," said Koosman, whose problems stemmed mainly from off-target curves.

"I wasn't getting it over," he said of the recalcitrant pitch, "and when I wasn't getting it over they were just sitting on the hard stuff."

One who waited for Koosman's fast ball was McGlothen, who arrived at the plate in the second inning after Mike Anderson singled and was forced by Mike Tyson.

McGlothen fouled off a pitch after Koosman fell behind 2-1, then fought off an inside offering to drill a single over third base.

Bake McBride followed with a walk to load the bases, and Don Kessinger and Lou Brock hammered successive singles producing three Cards runs.

Three more St. Louis runs, one on a fifth-inning McGlothen suicide squeeze bunt, later crossed the plate to establish a 6-1 lead before the Cards pitcher ran into a jam.

Then, after Ed Kranepool walked and Del Unser singled to open the Mets' seventh, Hrabosky came on to preserve the cushion and ultimately surrender an unearned run in the ninth.

Concurring with McGlothen's evaluation of his pitching was St. Louis coach Bob Milliken.

Merry-go-round continues

Big scores continued to be the rule rather than the exception in the Sikeston Little League Monday evening. The biggest scores came in the American League, where Ryan Construction tallied 21 times, and in the National League, where Legion and Lewis Furniture combined for 34 runs.

AMERICAN LEAGUE
Ryan Construction mauled Moore's Firestone 21-5 and Righter edged Ziegenhorn 5-4 in American League action Monday night.

Two big runs scoring inning by Ryan spelled defeat for Moore's Firestone. Ryan ripped losing pitcher Jim Georgan for six runs in the first inning and after Moore's scored one run in the first and three more in the second off Scott Bagle they exploded for 12 runs in the third. Ryan scored their 21 runs on 17 base hits. Bagle held his opponents to only one safety.

Righter battled Ziegenhorn for seven innings before winning. Ziegenhorn collected 12 hits in the game but scored only four runs. Righter scored their five runs on five hits.

Righter took a three run lead after the first two innings but losing pitcher Lee couldn't hold on as Ziegenhorn scored three runs in the fourth and fifth inning to tie the game. Righter crossed the plate in the sixth and seventh inning to win the game.

MUSIAL LEAGUE
Daily Standard romped over Hart's Bread 16-6 and Bank of Sikeston edged Malone & Hyde 10-9 in the Musial League.

Malone & Hyde scored four runs in the sixth inning but came up one short. They had taken a 3-0 lead after the first inning and added two more in the third to take a 5-0 lead but Bank of Sikeston went to work on losing pitcher Harper with two runs in the third and eight more in the fourth to lead 10-5. Alberson was the winning pitcher. Bank of Sikeston scored all ten runs on only three basehits. Malone & Hyde banged out 10 hits in the game.

Daily Standard jumped on losing hurler Scott Carmody for 16 hits and 16 runs. Hart's Bread scored their six runs on only four basehits off winning pitcher Doyle Hutton. David Russell and White collected four hits apiece for Daily Standard.

Daily Standard took a 4-1 lead after the first inning but Hart's Bread battled back to tie the game at 5-5 after scoring three runs in the third. Carmody couldn't hold the bats of Daily Standard and they scored five runs in the fourth to put the game out of reach.

NATIONAL LEAGUE
Legion defeated Lewis Furniture 21-13 and Kiwanis was victorious over the Lions 13-9.

After Lewis Furniture took a 3-1 lead in the first inning Legion crossed the plate seven times in the third and four more times in the fourth. The game wasn't settled until Legion scored eight runs in the eighth inning. Legion collected 16 hits off Lewis Furniture pitching. Lewis Furniture had eight hits.

A big six run third inning sent Kiwanis out in front of Lions after the Lions had taken a 4-1 lead after two innings of play on the strength of two-run innings in the first and second.

Bob Casey picked up the win for Kiwanis and Braden suffered the loss. Gainer was the leading hitter for Kiwanis with three. The Lions had only one hit off Casey by Braden.

Elks, Jim Moore win

The Elks Club used tight pitching and three hits by firstsacker Glen Alexander to squeeze a 4-2 win out over Security Bank and Trust. By contrast, two innings of four runs each enabled Jim Moore to upend Security National Bank 9-6.

Ricky Taylor threw a three-hitter in the opener, allowing both runs to score in the third. Two errors sandwiched around a triple by Art Romanowski, gave Security Bank and Trust their only markers.

The Elks scored a run in the first on an infield grounder by Wayne Barnett, added two more in the second on hits by Alexander and Jim Clay and concluded the scoring when Taylor singled home Juaken Dumas in the fifth.

Jim Moore scored four in the third, then did it again in the fifth, in reeling off the 9-6 victory. Rightlander Johnny Greer received credit for the win. Vaught was the loser.

CATFISH IS CREAMED
NEW YORK (AP) — Pitcher Catfish Hunter of the New York Yankees threw strikes to two successive Minnesota hitters but they never made rookie catcher Thurman Munson's mitt. Lyman Bostock hit a two-run homer in the ninth but Butch Wynegar followed with another to beat the Yanks 5-4 and snap a five-game New York winning streak.

The homers were the first in the short major league careers of both Bostock and Wynegar. In the third inning, Rod Carew tagged Hunter for a 353-foot homer. Bostock's homer carried 370 feet while Wynegar put his shot over the 345-foot mark in Yankee Stadium the first week of the season.

IGA rallies to win 8-5

An eight-run rally by Sikeston IGA in the sixth inning to erase a five run lead by the Daily Standard highlighted the action in the Sikeston Womens and Girls Softball League Monday evening. Action in both the Major and Senior Divisions was seen at Farris and Puckett Fields.

MAJOR DIVISION

An injury to Cindy Lawrence of the Daily Standard forced her out of the game, and IGA took advantage to take an 8-5 victory. Lawrence had a no-hitter going until the sixth, when she left the game with a sore hand. A host of Standard hurlers tried in vain to stop IGA, who scored eight times in the inning to win. Gena Nolen had two hits for the winners.

Kiwanis jumped on First National Bank for six runs in the third inning and went on to hand them their first setback of the season, 14-4. Liz Ahlvin held First National in check while her teammates rolled up an 11-1 lead at one point. Sheryl West drilled four hits in as many trips to lead Kiwanis' 10-hit attack.

SENIOR DIVISION
Williams Brothers came up with eight runs in the second inning to wipe out a 6-3 lead, then went on to down the Eagles 13-11. The Eagles whittled away at that lead the rest of the game, but never could come closer than the final two-run deficit. James went four-for-four for Williams as they outhit the Eagles 12-8. Lawrence was the winning pitcher.

Citizens Bank scored in every inning as they bombed Clinton Construction 20-8 in the other game. Citizens Bank led 3-2 after the first inning, then pulled away with four, seven and six runs in the next three innings. Grogan had three hits for the winners.

Young blanks Davis & Bird

Home Materials upended league-leading Davis and Bird behind the six-hit pitching of Jeff Young 10-0, then Bank of Sikeston beat the Eagles 8-5 on Derek Braden's two-hitter in Jr. Babe Ruth action at the complex.

The game was called after six innings between Davis and Bird and Home Materials because of the 10-run rule. Young had 10 strikeouts during the game.

Braden rapped a double at bat, as well as allowing the Eagles only two safeties. Sam Copeland also had a double for the winners. Losing pitcher Chris Lanuius had a two-baser for Eagles.

Manager Gene Mauch of the Minnesota Twins often uses Tony Oliva as a pinchhitter in the first inning, then has him coach at first base the rest of the game.

Merry-go-round continues

Big scores continued to be the rule rather than the exception in the Sikeston Little League Monday evening. The biggest scores came in the American League, where Ryan Construction tallied 21 times, and in the National League, where Legion and Lewis Furniture combined for 34 runs.

Ryan Construction mauled Moore's Firestone 21-5 and Righter edged Ziegenhorn 5-4 in American League action Monday night.

Two big runs scoring inning by Ryan spelled defeat for Moore's Firestone. Ryan ripped losing pitcher Jim Georgan for six runs in the first inning and after Moore's scored one run in the first and three more in the second off Scott Bagle they exploded for 12 runs in the third. Ryan scored their 21 runs on 17 base hits. Bagle held his opponents to only one safety.

Righter battled Ziegenhorn for seven innings before winning. Ziegenhorn collected 12 hits in the game but scored only four runs. Righter scored their five runs on five hits.

Righter took a three run lead after the first two innings but losing pitcher Lee couldn't hold on as Ziegenhorn scored three runs in the fourth and fifth inning to tie the game. Righter crossed the plate in the sixth and seventh inning to win the game.

MUSIAL LEAGUE
Daily Standard romped over Hart's Bread 16-6 and Bank of Sikeston edged Malone & Hyde 10-9 in the Musial League.

Malone & Hyde scored four runs in the sixth inning but came up one short. They had taken a 3-0 lead after the first inning and added two more in the third to take a 5-0 lead but Bank of Sikeston went to work on losing pitcher Harper with two runs in the third and eight more in the fourth to lead 10-5. Alberson was the winning pitcher. Bank of Sikeston scored all ten runs on only three basehits. Malone & Hyde banged out 10 hits in the game.

Daily Standard jumped on losing hurler Scott Carmody for 16 hits and 16 runs. Hart's Bread scored their six runs on only four basehits off winning pitcher Doyle Hutton. David Russell and White collected four hits apiece for Daily Standard.

Daily Standard took a 4-1 lead after the first inning but Hart's Bread battled back to tie the game at 5-5 after scoring three runs in the third. Carmody couldn't hold the bats of Daily Standard and they scored five runs in the fourth to put the game out of reach.

Legion defeated Lewis Furniture 21-13 and Kiwanis was victorious over the Lions 13-9.

After Lewis Furniture took a 3-1 lead in the first inning Legion crossed the plate seven times in the third and four more times in the fourth. The game wasn't settled until Legion scored eight runs in the eighth inning. Legion collected 16 hits off Lewis Furniture pitching. Lewis Furniture had eight hits.

A big six run third inning sent Kiwanis out in front of Lions after the Lions had taken a 4-1 lead after two innings of play on the strength of two-run innings in the first and second.

Bob Casey picked up the win for Kiwanis and Braden suffered the loss. Gainer was the leading hitter for Kiwanis with three. The Lions had only one hit off Casey by Braden.

Elks, Jim Moore win

The Elks Club used tight pitching and three hits by firstsacker Glen Alexander to squeeze a 4-2 win out over Security Bank and Trust. By contrast, two innings of four runs each enabled Jim Moore to upend Security National Bank 9-6.

Ricky Taylor threw a three-hitter in the opener, allowing both runs to score in the third. Two errors sandwiched around a triple by Art Romanowski, gave Security Bank and Trust their only markers.

The Elks scored a run in the first on an infield grounder by Wayne Barnett, added two more in the second on hits by Alexander and Jim Clay and concluded the scoring when Taylor singled home Juaken Dumas in the fifth.

Jim Moore scored four in the third, then did it again in the fifth, in reeling off the 9-6 victory. Righthander Johnny Greer received credit for the win. Vaught was the loser.

CATFISH IS CREAMED

NEW YORK (AP) — Pitcher Catfish Hunter of the New York Yankees threw strikes to two successive Minnesota hitters but they never made rookie catcher Thurman Munson's mitt. Lyman Bostock hit a two-run homer in the ninth but Butch Wynegar followed with another to beat the Yanks 5-4 and snap a five-game New York winning streak.

The homers were the first in the short major league careers of both Bostock and Wynegar. In the third inning, Rod Carew tagged Hunter for a 353-foot homer. Bostock's homer carried 370 feet while Wynegar put his shot over the 345-foot mark in Yankee Stadium the first week of the season.

Cover Story Is Big Summer News

THE COVER-UP is big news this summer. You can T it, left, with a skim of a shirt in sailing blue, fittingly screened with the same sailboat that prints the string-tied bikini it barely covers. Or, right, the long and short of it in lace, an acetate and nylon fabric that keeps both its cool and its shape over everything. (The nylon suit and polyester top are a trio from Channel West; the short jacket and button-front long coat are from Sea Fashions of California.)

SPARKLING in a night view looking south from Rockefeller Center, Manhattan Island is dominated by an old familiar landmark — the Empire State Building, center — and a new one — the more distant World Trade Center towers, just to the right.

SPACED-OUT through the rigging, a sailing crew makes a striking picture on display on an exhibit, "Tall Ships," staged in conjunction with New York City's upcoming "Operation Sail" review of sailing ships. Photos are on display at the Kodak Gallery.

Cover Story Is Big Summer News

THE COVER-UP is big news this summer. You can T it, left, with a skim of a shirt in sailing blue, fittingly screened with the same sailboat that prints the string-tied bikini it barely covers. Or, right, the long and short of it in lace, an acetate and nylon fabric that keeps both its cool and its shape over everything. (The nylon suit and polyester top are a trio from Channel West; the short jacket and button-front long coat are from Sea Fashions of California.)

SPARKLING in a night view looking south from Rockefeller Center, Manhattan Island is dominated by an old familiar landmark — the Empire State Building, center — and a new one — the more distant World Trade Center towers, just to the right.

SPACED-OUT through the rigging, a sailing crew makes a striking picture on display on an exhibit, "Tall Ships," staged in conjunction with New York City's upcoming "Operation Sail" review of sailing ships. Photos are on display at the Kodak Gallery.

Bank to receive student loan deposit

LILBOURN — State Treasurer James I. Spainhower announced today that the Peoples Bank of Lilbourn is among 16 banks which have just qualified for their third consecutive deposit under provisions of the Student Loan Discretionary Time Deposit Program.

Spainhower says there are now 27 banks participating in the program which he initiated three years ago to encourage Missouri banks to make loans under the Federal Insured Student Loan Program.

The Peoples Bank of Lilbourn will receive a deposit of $100,000 which it will hold for one year while paying the state 6.1 per cent interest.

The 16 banks announced today by Spainhower as having qualified for the third consecutive year will receive a total of $3,721,000 in state deposits for their emphasis on participation in student loans.

Spainhower says those banks sharing in the third year of these deposits have all met the requirements for the program begun in 1974. Several other banks which qualified during the past two years will be eligible to reapply in the coming weeks for the third year of the program.

"We continue to note," Spainhower says, "a good response to the plan which places interest-bearing deposits with banks which display an above average participation in the student loan program. Applications received by our office indicate a sound base of involvement in the student loan operation, and I think we will see the number grow."

Spainhower's Student Loan Discretionary Time Deposit Program sets aside each year from five to 10 million dollars which is deposited in banks which meet the requirements for receiving state deposits. These banks are entitled to a deposit of $100,000. Banks whose students loans exceed $100,000 are entitled to an additional deposit of one dollar for every two dollars beyond $100,000 in student loans. The maximum deposit under the program is $500,000.

Spainhower says there are many bright students in Missouri with unlimited potential to contribute to their community and country, providing they are not denied the opportunity for an education. "That opportunity," he says, "is unfortunately denied to many of our most promising young citizens because they do not have the financial resources to continue their education beyond the high school level."

The Treasurer says the current inflationary crunch frequently makes it unprofitable for banking institutions to make student loans under the federally insured program. "Frankly, banking institutions are hesitant to make these loans because their yield is generally below the market interest rate. Our program should add the incentive needed to make banks

give stronger consideration to granting student loans."

Spainhower believes his investment program will provide an educational opportunity for many additional Missouri students. "It will allow many community-minded banks to make student loans without a loss to their institutions. In the past some Missouri banks have made such loans without realizing a profit. They have done so, I believe, because they see their banks as a viable partner in the community and state. For this attitude I salute such banks."

Spainhower urged banks which have not participated in the Federally Insured Student Loan Program, or have done so on a limited basis, to study carefully his program. "When they have done so," he says, "I am convinced they will see the practicality of their participation as well as the benefit to their state and community."

When asked what he would do to avoid the situation former Gov. Warren Hearnes found with the Justice Department investigation, Teasdale said it was unavoidable. He said "You avoid an investigation by being open, but in the Hearnes case, I think that was an attempt by the Department of Justice, controlled by Richard Nixon at the time to embarrass as many Democrats across this country as possible." Teasdale termed the investigation a "witch hunt."

In commenting on the campaign disclosure law, Teasdale said he felt that the disclosure of candidates for public office would not be broad enough, and that the people have the right to know everything about someone who wants to enter into public life.

Bank to receive student loan deposit

LILBOURN — State Treasurer James I. Spainhower announced today that the Peoples Bank of Lilbourn is among 16 banks which have just qualified for their third consecutive deposit under provisions of the Student Loan Discretionary Time Deposit Program.

Spainhower says there are now 27 banks participating in the program which he initiated three years ago to encourage Missouri banks to make loans under the Federal Insured Student Loan Program.

The Peoples Bank of Lilbourn will receive a deposit of $100,000 which it will hold for one year while paying the state 6.1 per cent interest.

The 16 banks announced today by Spainhower as having qualified for the third consecutive year will receive a total of $3,721,000 in state deposits for their emphasis on participation in student loans.

Spainhower says those banks sharing in the third year of these deposits have all met the requirements for the program begun in 1974. Several other banks which qualified during the past two years will be eligible to reapply in the coming weeks for the third year of the program.

"We continue to note," Spainhower says, "a good response to the plan which places interest-bearing deposits with banks which display an above average participation in the student loan program. Applications received by our office indicate a sound base of

Spainhower's Student Loan Discretionary Time Deposit Program sets aside each year from five to 10 million dollars which is deposited in banks which meet the requirements for receiving state deposits. These banks are entitled to a deposit of $100,000. Banks whose students loans exceed $100,000 are entitled to an additional deposit of one dollar for every two dollars beyond $100,000 in student loans. The maximum deposit under the program is $500,000.

Spainhower says there are many bright students in Missouri with unlimited potential to contribute to their community and country, providing they are not denied the opportunity for an education. "That opportunity," he says, "is unfortunately denied to many of our most promising young citizens because they do not have the financial resources to continue their education beyond the high school level."

The Treasurer says the current inflationary crunch frequently makes it unprofitable for banking institutions to make student loans under the federally insured program. "Frankly, banking institutions are hesitant to make these loans because their yield is generally below the market interest rate. Our program should add the incentive needed to make banks

Spainhower believes his investment program will provide an educational opportunity for many additional Missouri students. "It will allow many community-minded banks to make student loans without a loss to their institutions. In the past some Missouri banks have made such loans without realizing a profit. They have done so, I believe, because they see their banks as a viable partner in the community and state. For this attitude I salute such banks."

Spainhower urged banks which have not participated in the Federally Insured Student Loan Program, or have done so on a limited basis, to study carefully his program. "When they have done so," he says, "I am convinced they will see the practicality of their participation as well as the benefit to their state and community."
